APPENDIX A: Curriculum Vitae

I. INTRODUCTION

1. I have been asked by class counsel to opine on their request for 1/3 of the $110.6 million common fund in the Compass, et al. settlements as attorneys' fees (i.e., approximately $36.87 million).¹ More generally, I have been asked to opine on the approach this Court should take not only for the $110.6 million settlement funds immediately at issue here but also for other pending settlements in related litigation involving other defendants—the $418 million settlement with the National Association of Realtors (hereafter, the NAR settlement), and a $250 million settlement with HomeServices.² Class counsel have advised me that they will be seeking 1/3 of the fund for all pending settlements. As discussed below, it is my opinion that an award of 1/3 for the $110.6 million settlement and for the other pending settlements is both reasonable and justified. Although I do not believe that this Court is required to conduct a lodestar cross-check to justify the percentage sought by class counsel, it is my opinion that such a cross-check supports class counsel's request. I discuss below a methodology that in my opinion is well suited to this litigation should this Court choose to conduct a lodestar cross-check.³

¹ The nine individual settlements that make up this $110.6 million total are discussed in detail infra, ¶¶ 18-22.

² Certain of the settlements include additional contingent amounts if certain targets are met. In addition, I understand that the NAR settlement includes a mechanism for multiple listing services and brokerages to “opt in” to the settlement, including by making additional settlement payments beyond the $418 million to be paid by NAR. I do not consider these contingent amounts, but my analysis in this Declaration (including the reasonableness of a 1/3 fee award and the mechanism for conducting a lodestar cross-check) would be applicable to any such amounts.

³ In addition to discussing the various pending settlements, my Declaration also references and takes into account the prior $208.5 million settlement with Anywhere Real Estate, RE/MAX, and Keller Williams Realty, Inc. (hereafter, the Anywhere, et al. settlements). This Court, in an order dated May 9, 2024, gave final approval to the Anywhere, et al. settlements and awarded 1/3

2. I recognize that my role is limited and that the Court will determine reasonable attorneys' fees and select the appropriate methodology to use in making that award.

II. QUALIFICATIONS

3. As discussed below (¶¶ 9-10), I have qualified as an expert in numerous class action and other aggregate cases and have opined on attorneys' fees issues in many of those cases. I am currently the Jordan D. Schnitzer Professor of Law at Lewis & Clark Law School and have held that position since June 1, 2014. This is an endowed, tenured position at the rank of full professor. From July 1, 2007, to May 31, 2014, I served as the Dean of Lewis & Clark Law School, and I was also a full professor at Lewis & Clark during that time. Immediately prior to assuming the deanship at Lewis & Clark, I served for four years as the Douglas Stripp/Missouri Professor of Law at the University of Missouri-Kansas City School of Law (UMKC). That appointment was an endowed, tenured position at the rank of full professor. Before joining the academy in a full-time capacity, I served for more than a dozen years as an attorney with the international law firm of Jones Day, working in the firm's Washington, D.C. office. I was an equity partner at the firm for most of that time. I continued to work for Jones Day while I was employed at UMKC; my status with the firm during that period changed from partner to of counsel. I ended my relationship with Jones Day in 2007, when I became Dean of Lewis & Clark Law School. While working at Jones Day (before joining the UMKC faculty), I also served for many years as an adjunct professor of law at Georgetown University Law Center. Before joining Jones Day, I served as an Assistant of the common fund. Burnett v. Nat'l Ass'n of Realtors, No. 4:19-CV-00332-SRB, 2024 WL 2842222 (W.D. Mo. May 9, 2024).

United States Attorney and as an Assistant to the Solicitor General of the United States. Immediately after graduating from law school, I served as a law clerk for Chief Judge John R. Brown of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. I received my law degree from Yale Law School in 1979.

4. In my various academic positions, I have taught (among other subjects) complex litigation, class actions, civil procedure, federal courts, and federal appellate procedure. With respect to my scholarship, I am a co-author of the Wright & Miller treatise, Federal Practice and Procedure. I have sole responsibility for the three volumes of the treatise focusing on class actions (including attorneys' fees in class actions). In addition, I co-authored the first casebook devoted specifically to class actions, and I am now the sole author of that book: Class Actions and Other Multi-Party Litigation: Cases and Materials (West 4th ed. 2017, with annual supplements). I am also the sole author of the West Nutshell on class actions, Class Actions and Other Multi-Party Litigation in a Nutshell (West 6th ed. 2021), and the West Nutshell on federal multidistrict litigation, Federal Multidistrict Litigation in a Nutshell (West 2020). These texts, which address attorneys' fees issues, are used at a number of law schools and have been cited by many courts and commentators.⁴ I have also authored or co-authored numerous scholarly articles on class actions

⁴ As just a small sample, see, e.g., Forsythe v. Teva Pharm. Indus. Ltd., 102 F.4th 152, 156 n.9 (3d Cir. 2024) (citing casebook); Kolbe v. BAC Home Loans Servicing, LP, 738 F.3d 432, 468 (1st Cir. 2013) (citing Class Action Nutshell); *Culver v. and other topics.⁵ In October 2014, I was elected to membership in the International Association of Procedural Law (“IAPL”), an organization of preeminent civil procedure scholars from around the world. I was selected in a competitive process to present a scholarly article on class actions at the May 2015 Congress of the IAPL, an event held once every four years.

5. In September 2011, Chief Justice John G. Roberts, Jr., appointed me to serve a three-year term as the academic voting member of the Judicial Conference Advisory Committee on Rules of Civil Procedure (“Advisory Committee”). The Advisory Committee considers and recommends amendments to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Only one professor in the United States is selected by the Chief Justice to serve in that role during any three-year term. In May 2014, Chief Justice Roberts reappointed me to serve a second three-year term on the Advisory Committee. I completed that service in May 2017 (The maximum period of service on the Advisory Committee is six years). I also served on the Advisory Committee’s Class Action Subcommittee, which took the lead for the full Advisory Committee on proposed amendments to the federal class action rule, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23. Those proposed amendments became effective on December 1, 2018.

⁵ My articles have been frequently cited. For example, my 2013 article, The Decline of Class Actions, 90 WASH. U. L. REV. 729 (2013), has been cited well over 350 times by courts and commentators. As just a small sample, see, e.g., In re Parish, 81 F.4th 403, 419 (5th Cir. 2023); Mielo v. Steak ‘n Shake Operations, Inc., 897 F.3d 467, 484 & n.18 (3d Cir. 2018); In re National Football League Players’ Concussion Injury Litig., 775 F.3d 570, 576 (3d Cir. 2014); *Eubank v. 6. I have been a member of the American Law Institute (“ALI”) since 2003, and I serve on the ALI Council, the organization’s governing body. I was an Associate Reporter for the ALI’s class action (and other multi-party litigation) project, Principles of the Law of Aggregate Litigation. I was the principal author of Chapter 3, which addresses class action settlements and attorneys’ fees. The ALI project was unanimously approved by the membership of the American Law Institute at its annual meeting in May 2009 and was published by the American Law Institute in May 2010. It has been frequently cited by courts and commentators.⁶

7. In addition to my academic work, I have 44 years of experience as a practicing lawyer. I have had eight oral arguments before the U.S. Supreme Court, and numerous oral arguments in other federal and state appellate courts throughout the country, including oral arguments in eight federal circuits. As an attorney at Jones Day, I personally handled more than 100 class action cases, mostly (but not entirely) on the defense side. I have also served as co-counsel in numerous high-profile class actions and MDLs post-Jones Day, including cases in the U.S. Supreme Court and numerous federal circuits.

⁶ As just a small sample, see, e.g., Smith v. Bayer Corp., 564 U.S. 299, 316 (2011) n.11 (2011); Home Depot USA, Inc. v. Lafarge N. Am., 59 F.4th 55, 67, 68 (3d Cir. 2023); *In re Google Inc. REV. 2129, 2121–22 (2020).

8. I have lectured and taught on class actions and other litigation topics throughout the United States and abroad, including presentations at law schools in Cambodia, Canada, China, Colombia, Croatia, Ecuador, France, Germany, India, Israel, Italy, Japan, the Philippines, Russia, South Africa, South Korea, Taiwan, and Turkey. Over the years, I have frequently appeared as an invited speaker at class action symposia, conferences, and continuing legal education programs.⁷

9. I have testified as an expert in numerous class action cases and in other cases raising civil procedure issues. These include, among many others:

- In re JUUL Labs, Inc. Marketing, Sales Practices, and Products Liab. Litig., No. 19-md-02913-WHO (N.D. Cal.) (submitted expert declaration, dated 6/23/23, on attorneys' fees for settlement with JUUL; submitted expert declaration, dated 1/11/24, on attorneys' fees for settlement with Altria);
- Rogowski v. State Farm Life Insurance Company, No. 4:22-cv-00203-RK (W.D. Mo.) (submitted expert declaration, dated 2/13/23, in support of class counsel's motion for attorneys' fees, costs, and service awards for class plaintiffs);
- In re Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School Shooting FTCA Litigation, No. 01:18-62758-WPD (S.D. Fla.) (Parkland Shooting) (submitted expert declaration, dated 2/08/22, on a motion to terminate lead counsel; submitted supplemental expert declaration, dated 10/28/22, on attorneys' fees issues in Federal Tort Claims Act civil litigation);
- Githieya v. Global Tel Link Corp., No. 1:15-cv-00986-AT (N.D. Ga.) (submitted expert declaration, dated 4/01/22, on attorneys' fees issues; submitted expert declaration, dated 7/22/22, on class certification and fairness issues in connection with a proposed class settlement);

⁷ Examples of those courses and speaking engagements are contained in my attached curriculum vitae (Appendix A).

- Rosie D. v. Baker, C.A. No. 01-30199-RGS (D. Mass.) (submitted expert declaration, dated 11/23/21, on attorneys' fees issues);

No. 163-3) and on attorneys' fees and incentive payments (Doc. 164-1) (both dated 03/08/11) and testified in court on March 10, 2011)).

10. Courts evaluating attorneys' fees and class settlements have relied extensively on my testimony. For example:

- In the Syngenta MIR 162 Corn MDL litigation, Judge John Lungstrum cited my two declarations on attorneys' fees issues numerous times in his two opinions.⁸ Indeed, Judge Lungstrum credited my opinions on attorneys' fees over the contrary opinions of five law professor experts retained by various objectors.⁹
- In the Deepwater Horizon MDL litigation, Judge Carl Barbier cited and quoted my declarations (relating to a proposed settlement with British Petroleum) more than 60 times in his two opinions analyzing class certification and fairness.¹⁰ In a later order in that MDL, Judge Barbier repeatedly cited another declaration of mine—which I filed in connection with a class settlement involving defendants Transocean and Halliburton.¹¹

- In the Volkswagen Clean Diesel MDL litigation, Judge Charles Breyer repeatedly cited and quoted my two declarations in his three opinions—relating to the 2.0-liter VW class settlement, the 3.0-liter VW class settlement, and the class settlement with VW’s co-defendant, Bosch.¹²
- In the AT&T Mobility MDL litigation, then–District Judge (now Seventh Circuit Judge) Amy St. Eve cited and quoted my declarations more than 20 times in approving a class settlement and awarding attorneys’ fees.¹³
- In the JUUL MDL, Judge Orrick utilized my proposed methodology for determining the lodestar cross-check.¹⁴ The settlement for which fees were sought was a consumer class settlement involving JUUL, but the work performed by class counsel also related to separate government entity cases and personal injury cases, as well as to a consumer class action against Altria. Judge Orrick noted, in a fee issue of first impression, that “Professor Klonoff’s method of roughly calculating a lodestar cross-check [was] helpful,” and he adopted that approach over a number of alternatives offered by plaintiffs as the one that “makes the most sense[.]”¹⁵ In a subsequent settlement of a consumer class action involving a different defendant—Altria—Judge Orrick again found my

IV. FACTUAL OVERVIEW

14. This Court is thoroughly familiar with the background of the litigation, having presided over the historic jury trial in October 2023, and having considered and ruled upon myriad motions in this litigation. Thus, I discuss only those facts that are relevant to my opinions.

A. Allegations in the Related Lawsuits

15. These cases involve pathbreaking antitrust claims that go to the core of the real estate MLS commission system. In brief, the plaintiffs in the various cases allege that the National Association of Realtors (NAR) and various brokerages conspired to artificially inflate commissions by adopting a “cooperative compensation rule” that impeded the ability of sellers to negotiate lower commission rates. Under that rule, sellers must pay commissions to buyers’ agents that find homes for buyers. Sellers argued that such payments are excessive and violate federal antitrust laws. The antitrust theories were developed entirely by class counsel, without the benefit of a prior or concurrent government investigation or lawsuit. And unlike most class actions, these cases have sought not only potentially billions of dollars in monetary damages, but also fundamental changes to the entire real estate industry—changes that will benefit real estate sellers and buyers nationally.

B. Pretrial Activities and Rulings

16. Hard-fought litigation took place for over four years in two related cases: Burnett v. Nat’l Ass’n of Realtors, Case No. 4:19-cv-00332-SRD (W.D. Mo.) (Burnett), and Moehrl v. National Association of Realtors, Case No. 1:19-cv-01610-ARW (N.D. Ill.) (Moehrl). Moehrl involved 20 MLSs in 19 states, while Burnett covered four MLSs in Missouri. The allegations in the two cases were essentially the same. In both cases, the parties engaged in extensive fact and expert discovery, and in both cases, class certification was granted over defendants' vigorous opposition. The six plaintiff law firms in the class settlements discussed below were also counsel in Burnett and Moehrl. In both cases, plaintiffs successfully defended against motions to dismiss, motions for summary judgment, and Daubert challenges. In addition, in Burnett, plaintiffs successfully defeated defendants' argument that the suit was subject to arbitration (an issue that was also briefed in Moehrl). Importantly, the discovery conducted by plaintiffs' counsel in Burnett and Moehrl focused on the entire industry, not just on the particular MLSs at issue in those two cases.

C. Trial and Settlements

1. Trial Against NAR, Keller Williams, and HomeServices

17. In October 2023, this Court presided over a trial in Burnett—involving a class of approximately a half million Missouri real estate sellers against NAR and various brokerages, including Keller Williams and HomeServices of America. (RE/MAX and Anywhere Real Estate settled before trial). After a two-week trial and less than three hours of deliberations, the jury found that NAR, HomeServices of America, and Keller Williams had engaged in an antitrust conspiracy and awarded $1.78 billion in damages (before trebling). Importantly, unlike the settlements at issue here, which contain historic injunctive relief, the jury's verdict did not require the industry to change its practices, a point emphasized by NAR shortly after the verdict.²³ NAR also stated publicly that it was “confident” it would prevail on appeal.²⁴ NAR and the other defendants filed extensive post-trial motions, and had the cases not settled, those defendants were prepared to appeal the judgments (assuming they did not get post-trial relief from this Court).

²³ Debra Kamin, Home Sellers Win $1.8 Billion After Jury Finds Conspiracy Among Realtors, THE NEW YORK TIMES (Oct. 31, 2023), <https://www.nytimes.com/2023/10/31/realestate/nar-antitrust-lawsuit.html> (quoting N.A.R. president, Tracy Kasper, as stating “[t]his verdict does not require a change in our rules”).

2. Anywhere, et al. Settlements

18. These nationwide class settlements created a fund of $208.5 million and also obligated the defendants to make important changes in their practices and to cooperate in ongoing litigation against other defendants. The settling defendants were Anywhere Real Estate, Inc., RE/MAX LLC, and Keller Williams Realty, Inc. On May 9, 2024, this Court entered an order granting final approval of the settlement and awarding attorneys’ fees of 1/3 of the common fund. Burnett v. Nat’l Ass’n of Realtors, No. 4:19-CV-00332-SRB, 2024 WL 2842222 (W.D. Mo. May 9, 2024). The Court utilized the percentage-of-the-fund approach and did not deem it necessary to conduct a lodestar cross-check. Id. at *14.

3. The Compass, et al. Settlements Involved in the Motion for Attorneys’ Fees at Issue

19. The nine Compass, et al. nationwide class settlements currently before the Court involve the creation of a total non-reversionary fund of $110.6 million. That amount is made up of contributions by nine defendants: Compass ($57.5 million); Real Brokerage ($9.25 million); Realty ONE ($5 million); @properties ($6.5 million); Douglas Elliman ($7.75 million); Redfin Corporation ($9.25 million); Engel & Volkers ($6.9 million); HomeSmart Holdings, Inc. ($4.7

million); and United Real Estate ($3.75 million). [Doc. 161 at 8; Doc. 303 at 2]. In addition to the monetary commitments, the settling defendants obligate themselves to make important changes in their practices, detailed in the settlement agreements [Docs. 161-2 through 161-6; 294-1; 303-1] and summarized in the brief in support of preliminary approval. The settling defendants have also agreed to cooperate in the ongoing litigation against the remaining defendants. Most of these settlements were reached only after extensive negotiations overseen by an experienced mediator, Greg Lindstrom, who was involved in prior settlement-related work in this litigation. The motions for preliminary approval were filed on April 29, 2024, July 12, 2024, and July 15, 2024. [Docs. 161, 294, 303]. Preliminary approval was granted on April 30, 2024, July 15, 2024, and July 16, 2024. [Docs. 163, 297, 348], and final approval is pending.

4. NAR Settlement

20. The NAR nationwide class settlement between plaintiffs and NAR creates a non-reversionary fund of at least $418 million plus interest. [Burnett Doc. 1458 at 7, 12]. In addition, the NAR agrees to change its business practices going forward [Burnett Doc. 1458 at 12-15] and agrees to cooperate with plaintiffs in their claims against the remaining defendants who have not settled. [Burnett Doc. 1458 at 15-16]. The motion for preliminary approval was filed on April 19, 2024. [Burnett Doc. 1458]. Preliminary approval was granted on April 23, 2024, [Burnett Doc. 1460], and final approval is pending.

5. HomeServices Settlement

21. On August 7, 2024, class counsel reached a settlement with another brokerage, HomeServices, for $250 million, along with injunctive relief and a cooperation agreement. The motion for preliminary approval was filed on August 7, 2024. [Burnett Doc. 1518]. Preliminary approval was granted on August 18, 2024, [Burnett Doc. 1520], and final approval is pending.

6. Recap of Settlements

22. To recap, the approved and pending settlements are as follows:²⁵

- Anywhere $83.5 million [approved]
- RE/MAX: $55 million [approved]
- Keller Williams: $70 million [approved]
- Compass: $57.5 million [pending]
- Real Brokerage: $9.25 million [pending]
- Realty ONE: $5 million [pending]
- @properties: $6.5 million [pending]
- Douglas Elliman: at least $7.75 million [pending]
- Redfin: $9.25 million [pending]
- Engel & Volkers: $6.9 million [pending]
- HomeSmart: $4.7 million [pending]
- United: $3.75 million [pending]
- NAR: $418 million [pending]

²⁵ The nine settlements currently at issue per the Court's scheduling orders (and defined herein as the Compass, et al. settlements) are highlighted in bold.

- HomeServices: $250 million [pending]
- TOTAL FOR ALL ABOVE SETTLEMENTS: $987.1 million

D. Class Counsel's Lodestar and Multiplier in the Pending and Prior Settlements

23. As reflected in the declarations of class counsel accompanying their motion for attorneys' fees, the combined lodestar as of July 31, 2024 is $90,853,364. Class counsel have provided the Court with the lodestar for each of the six law firms designated as class counsel, including the billing rates for each timekeeper. (I understand that time for non-lead counsel in Moehrl is also included in the lodestar). Assuming total settlements of $987.1 million, total fees sought for all approved and pending settlements are $329.03 million (a figure that includes the $69.5 million in fees previously awarded by this Court). As I explain in detail below, based on a total lodestar of $90,853,364, the multiplier for all approved and pending settlements is approximately 3.62.

V. SUMMARY OF OPINIONS ON ATTORNEYS' FEES

24. In my opinion, under the percentage-of-the-fund method, which I believe is the preferable method to calculate fees in a common fund case like this one, a 1/3 fee is justified by the so-called *Johnson*²⁶ factors. This Court approved a 1/3 award in the Anywhere, et al. settlement, and there are no circumstances here that would warrant a lower percentage award for the pending settlements. Class counsel devoted more than 105,000 hours to this litigation overall as of July 31, 2024; the legal, factual, expert, and class certification issues were complex and challenging; great skill was required to litigate these cases; the plaintiff firms were hampered in their ability to take on other major matters; individual plaintiffs entered into 1/3 to 35 percent contingent fee agreements; the cases imposed significant time challenges; the results obtained were extraordinary; class counsel are highly regarded; and the fees sought are supported by awards in other cases.

25. In my opinion, the fact that the various settlements, viewed in their entirety, could be characterized as “mega-fund” settlements (settlements totaling more than $100 million) does not suggest that a percentage below 1/3 should be designated. In my opinion, fee percentages should not be reduced as the settlement amounts increase; indeed, the Eighth Circuit has recently rejected any such per se approach,²⁷ as have numerous other courts that have authorized comparable fees in mega-fund cases. A per se rule reducing fees in mega-fund cases would create a disincentive to class counsel to pursue the best possible relief against all defendants. Finally, based on the extraordinary results achieved by class counsel, I believe that a 1/3 fee award is reasonable for all of the pending settlements.

26. Importantly, the actual percentage sought by class counsel is substantially less than 1/3 when the value of the injunctive relief is factored into the equation. Myriad courts permit injunctive relief to be considered in determining the true value of a settlement. Press coverage reveals that the value of the injunctive relief here is billions of dollars per year going forward. Adding to the monetary total fund an exceedingly conservative value of the injunctive relief as $10 billion yields a fee percentage of only 2.99 percent. Moreover, although the precise value cannot be assessed, the settlements have secured the cooperation of the settling defendants in prosecution of the remaining defendants, adding important pressure on the remaining defendants to fold their tents and settle as well.

27. This Court concluded in the Anywhere, et al. settlements, Burnett v. Nat'l Ass'n of Realtors, No. 4:19-CV-00332-SRB, 2024 WL 2842222 (W.D. Mo. May 9, 2024), that no lodestar cross-check was necessary. The Eighth Circuit recently confirmed that it does not generally require a lodestar cross-check but noted that such a cross-check may “sometimes [be] warranted to double-check the result of the ‘percentage of the fund’ method.”²⁸ For instance, a cross-check may be warranted “when a megafund case settles quickly given the potential for a windfall.”²⁹ In this litigation, the settlement occurred only after years of hard-fought litigation, including a contested trial. And there are no other red flags suggesting that such a cross-check is necessary. Conducting one would merely bring into the equation all of the disadvantages of the lodestar approach.

28. In any event, out of an abundance of caution, I have done a lodestar cross-check. My lodestar cross-check is calculated based on a total lodestar of $90,853,364 for the litigation as a whole as of July 31, 2024, and based not only on the Compass, et al. settlements but also the previously approved Anywhere, et al. settlement fund and other recent pending settlements, including NAR and HomeServices. Based on the total amounts of attorneys’ fees sought (including $69.5 million already awarded) of $329.03 million, that works out to a multiplier of 3.62. My methodology of looking at the total settlements and total lodestar is well supported by the case law—including numerous antitrust cases. This methodology recognizes that, in litigation of this type, every hour of work is spent developing a case against all defendants. Any attempt to divide up hours on a defendant-by-defendant basis would be arbitrary and counterfactual.

²⁹ Id. (citation omitted).

29. A multiplier of 3.62 is fully justified based on the case law in light of the unique risks and challenges in this litigation. Courts in the Eighth Circuit and elsewhere have approved significantly higher multipliers in mega-fund cases.³⁰ Finally, if the previously approved Anywhere et al. settlements and the Compass, et al. settlements are considered in isolation, without taking into account the other pending settlements, the resulting multiplier is an extremely modest 1.17.

VI. THE ATTORNEYS' FEES REQUESTED BY CLASS COUNSEL (ONE THIRD OF THE COMMON FUND) ARE REASONABLE

30. In the Compass, et al. settlements, class counsel are seeking, as attorneys' fees, 1/3 of the $110.6 million settlement fund, i.e., approximately $36.9 million. These settlements are in addition to the $208.5 million settlement fund that has already been approved by this Court (with a fee award of 1/3) in the Anywhere, et al. settlements. The Compass, et al. settlements are also in addition to the $668 million in settlements currently pending this Court's approval in the NAR and HomeServices settlements. (Class counsel advised me that they intend to seek a 1/3 fee award in the NAR and the HomeServices settlements as well).

31. In the remaining sections of this Declaration, I offer my opinions on the reasonableness of the 1/3 fee request in the Compass, et al., settlements and the other pending settlements. In the final section, I focus solely on the Compass, et al. settlements, without factoring in the NAR and HomeServices settlements.

A. This Court Should Use the Percentage-of-the-Fund Method

32. As an initial matter, this Court must decide whether to use the percentage-of-the-fund method (the percentage method) or the lodestar method. Just as this Court did in the Anywhere, et al. settlements, Burnett v. Nat'l Ass'n of Realtors, No. 4:19-CV-00332-SRB, 2024 WL 2842222, at *14 (W.D. Mo. May 9, 2024), it is my opinion that the Court should use the percentage method here, as informed by the so-called *Johnson*³¹ factors.

33. Courts in the Eighth Circuit have discretion in common fund cases to choose either the percentage method or the lodestar method.³² Nonetheless, in the Eighth Circuit and elsewhere, courts strongly prefer to use the percentage method in common fund cases.³³ This preference for the percentage method—which I strongly support—stems primarily from the fact that the percentage method “most closely aligns the interests of the lawyers with the class, since the more recovered for the class, the more the attorneys stand to be paid.”³⁴ By contrast, the lodestar method arguably gives class counsel an incentive to work more hours than are necessary and to avoid early settlement.³⁵ Under the percentage method, class counsel are incentivized to work vigorously because “the more the attorney succeeds in recovering money for the client . . . the higher dollar amount of fees the lawyer earns.”³⁶ Moreover, the lodestar method has been heavily criticized by courts and commentators as “difficult to apply, time-consuming to administer, inconsistent in result, and capable of manipulation to reach a predetermined result.”³⁷ As the Eighth Circuit has noted, the lodestar calculation “increases the workload of an already-overtaxed judicial system,” can be “insufficiently objective,” brings about inconsistent results, may be “subject to manipulation,” and can lead to “a disincentive for the early settlement of cases.”³⁸

34. As I discuss below, in my opinion, the 1/3 fee award sought by class counsel is reasonable, particularly when taking into account the Johnson factors. (¶¶ 37-78). Moreover, there is no need for the Court to conduct a lodestar cross-check. (¶¶ 99-101). In any case, as I explain, a lodestar cross-check—utilizing a holistic methodology that takes into consideration the total hours spent in the overall litigation, all of the pending settlements (Compass, et al., NAR et al., and HomeServices), and all of the settlements previously approved by this Court (the Anywhere et al. settlements)—fully supports class counsel’s request for 1/3 of the fund. (¶¶ 102-114). The resulting multiplier, 3.62, is well within levels routinely approved by courts.

B. The 1/3 Fee Award Requested Here Is Reasonable, Without Even Taking Into Account the Valuable Injunctive Relief and Cooperation from Defendants in Pursuing Other Defendants

1. Reasonableness of a Fee Award of 1/3 of the Fund

35. As noted, class counsel seek attorneys’ fees of 1/3 of the $110.6 million settlement fund in the Compass, et al. settlements and 1/3 in the other pending settlements. This is the same percentage that they sought (and that this Court approved) in the Anywhere et al. settlements.

information over the life of a complex litigation and make a determination about whether the time devoted to the litigation was necessary or reasonable A related weakness in the lodestar approach is that it often results in substantial delay in distribution of the common fund to the class.”); REPORT OF THE FEDERAL COURTS STUDY COMMITTEE, supra note 35 (noting that the lodestar method may “unduly burden judges”).

³⁸ Johnston, 83 F.3d at 245 n.8 (citations omitted).

36. In the Eighth Circuit, a “[fee] award in the amount of one-third of the total settlement fund” is “in line with other awards in [that] Circuit.”³⁹ As this Court noted in awarding 1/3 of the fund in the Anywhere settlements, “one-third of the common fund is an appropriate amount for class counsel’s fees in complex class actions, including antitrust litigation.” Burnett, 2024 WL 2842222, at *14; see also id. (discussing Eighth Circuit cases and Missouri federal district court cases awarding as much as 36 percent “even to large settlements”). As I discuss below, based on the applicable criteria, it is my opinion that the percentage sought by class counsel here is reasonable.

a. The 1/3 of the Fund Requested is Reasonable Under the Johnson Factors Based on the Compelling Facts and Circumstances Here

37. In the Eighth Circuit, a district court addressing an attorneys’ fee award is required to assess the facts and circumstances by looking at 12 factors. These so-called Johnson factors, originally set forth by the Fifth Circuit in Johnson v. Georgia Highway Express, Inc.,⁴⁰ are:

(1) the time and labor involved; (2) the novelty and difficulty of the questions; (3) the skill requisite to perform the legal service properly; (4) the preclusion of other employment by the attorney due to acceptance of the case; (5) the customary fee; (6) any prearranged fee—this is helpful but not determinative; (7) time limitations imposed by the client or the circumstances; (8) the amount involved and the results obtained; (9) the experience, reputation, and ability of the attorneys; (10) the undesirability of the case; (11) the nature and length of the professional relationship with the client; and (12) awards in similar cases.⁴¹

⁴¹ Barfield v. Sho-Me Power Elec. Cooperative, No. 2:11-CV-4321NKL, 2015 WL 3460346, at *5 (W.D. Mo. June 1, 2015) (quoting Allen v. Tobacco Superstore, Inc., 475 F.3d 931, 944 n.3 (8th Cir. 2007)).

38. Although courts applying the Johnson factors have discretion on whether to apply particular factors and how much weight to give each one,⁴² it is settled law that in a common fund case, “the most critical factor in assessing fees is the degree of success obtained.”⁴³

39. In my opinion, the Johnson factors, taken as a whole, strongly support the reasonableness of the 1/3 fee award requested by class counsel. Although it is possible to group these factors for discussion, for clarity I address each factor separately.

i. Time and Labor Required

40. This litigation has required a significant investment of time by class counsel. To date, class counsel have devoted more than 105,000 hours to this litigation. Moreover, it is a certainty that numerous additional hours will be necessary to administer this settlement and the other pending settlements and to convince the remaining defendants to settle or conduct additional trials.

ii. Novelty and Difficulty of the Questions

41. Substantial attorneys’ fees are justified when the legal issues are particularly complex.⁴⁴ Indeed, courts (including this Court in the Anywhere, et al. settlements) have supported ⁴² See, e.g., Keil v. McCoy, 862 F.3d 685, 703 (8th Cir. 2017) (a district court is “not required to discuss all of the factors, since rarely are all of the Johnson factors applicable”) (cleaned up); Yarrington v. Solvay Pharmaceuticals, Inc., 697 F. Supp. 2d 1057, 1062 (D. 1/3 fee awards in antitrust cases, noting that such cases are especially challenging.⁴⁵ Here, the myriad legal and factual issues in this litigation were novel, complex, and contentious. Some examples of the novel and difficult nature of the issues are discussed below.

42. Complex Legal and Factual Issues. In the related Moehrl and Burnett cases, defendants in those actions challenged nearly every aspect of plaintiffs’ Sherman Act claims, including: contesting the existence of an agreement between corporate defendants and NAR; contesting the existence of a conspiracy; arguing that plaintiffs failed to allege a properly defined market; arguing that NAR rules do not unreasonably restrain trade because they are inherently pro-competitive; asserting that plaintiffs cannot show they suffered a legally-cognizable injury and thus lack Article III standing; and asserting that NAR’s rules were not the cause of plaintiffs’ claimed injuries. Defendants also challenged every aspect of Plaintiffs’ Missouri Merchandising Practices Act (MMPA) claims. Class counsel successfully defeated these challenges at both the motion to dismiss and summary judgment stages. However, defendants’ arguments were not insubstantial, and they loomed on appeal of any contested final judgment.⁴⁶

⁴⁵ See, e.g., Burnett v. Nat’l Ass’n of Realtors, No. 4:19-CV-00332-SRB, 2024 WL 2842222, at *16 (W.D. Mo. May 9, 2024) (“[b]ecause antitrust claims are especially complex, expensive, and difficult to prosecute, courts have recognized that antitrust settlements should result in attorneys’ fees equal to one-third of the fund.”); In re Cattle & Beef Antitrust Litig., No. 22-3031 (JRT/JFD), 2023 WL 8098644, at *3 (D. Minn. Nov. 21, 2023) (noting that “[a]ntitrust class actions are inherently complex” in justifying one-third fee award); In re Pork Antitrust Litig., No. CV 18-1776 (JRT/JD), 2022 WL 18959155, at *3 (D. Minn. 43. Defendants’ Arguments that the Claims Had to Be Arbitrated. Plaintiffs’ counsel defeated two motions to compel arbitration, as well as several other arbitration-related arguments. Class counsel confronted complex “gateway” arbitrability issues as well as equitable estoppel principles under Missouri law. Class counsel successfully persuaded the Court that equitable estoppel did not apply and that the Court—rather than an arbitrator—must decide threshold questions of arbitrability.⁴⁷ Moreover, on two occasions class counsel successfully defended the Court’s denial of arbitration on appeal to the Eighth Circuit.⁴⁸ Defendants also unsuccessfully attempted to appeal the second Eighth Circuit ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court.⁴⁹

to exclude the testimony of Dr. Craig T. Schulman—once before class certification and once before trial—testimony that provided a benchmark analysis vital to plaintiffs’ claims. On both occasions defendants asserted that his testimony did not fit the facts of the case, his methodology was unreliable, his opinions were not relevant, and he had offered impermissible legal interpretations. The Court sided with plaintiffs on each ground for exclusion. Defendants also moved to exclude the testimony of Jeffrey Rothbart, asserting five primary grounds for exclusion. Plaintiffs successfully rebutted each of these arguments. Finally, Defendants levied similar challenges to the testimony of Roger Alford, which was essential in assisting the jury in understanding complex antitrust principles and the residential real estate industry. Once again, class counsel successfully defended the testimony, ensuring that it could be presented at trial.⁵⁰ Despite plaintiffs’ victories, however, defendants’ challenges to plaintiffs’ expert testimony remained an issue in any appeal.

45. Contested Class Certification Issues. In justifying substantial attorneys’ fees, a number of courts have relied on the fact that class counsel litigated difficult class certification issues.⁵¹ Here, defendants mounted vigorous challenges to class certification, including two unsuccessful attempts to appeal class certification to two different Circuits (the Seventh and the Eighth). Among other arguments, defendants contended that class certification was not supported by admissible expert testimony and that plaintiffs' injury and damages theories conflicted with their liability case.⁵² Again, while plaintiffs were successful in the district court and defeated defendants' attempts to appeal under Rule 23(f), class certification remained a disputed issue that defendants would have litigated in any appeal.

46. Challenges to the $1.78 Billion Trial Verdict. Defendants had multiple grounds for challenging the trial verdict, including numerous challenges to the admissibility of critical evidence; the absence of evidence of a conspiracy by NAR or any of the brokerage defendants; an argument that plaintiffs lacked standing and were uninjured; and numerous other contentions.⁵³ Although the NAR et al. settlements eliminated the need for this Court and the Eighth Circuit to rule on any of these challenges, these were clearly arguments that both this Court and the Eighth Circuit would have had to address had the case not settled.

iii. Skill Requisite to Perform the Legal Service Properly

47. Difficult Legal Issues. As noted above, this case involved a number of difficult legal and factual issues (§§ 41-46). Great skill was required, and as discussed below (§ 74), class counsel are highly skilled and experienced in antitrust cases and complex civil litigation generally.

48. Difficult Trial Issues. Because relatively few class actions go to trial,⁵⁴ courts reviewing attorneys' fee requests justifiably give significant weight, when applicable, to the fact that a contested trial occurred. For example, in its order awarding attorneys' fees in the Deepwater Horizon Litigation, the court noted that class counsel "did something that rarely happens in class actions: they actually went to trial."⁵⁵ The court emphasized that the "massive two-phase trial effort" weighed in favor of the fees requested by class counsel.⁵⁶ Similarly, in Allapattah, the district court emphasized that the settlement was reached only after class counsel succeeded at trial, noting that "[c]lass counsel . . . faced a potential catastrophic risk in the event the case was lost at trial."⁵⁷ In Urethane, the court relied heavily in its fee award on the impressive jury verdict obtained by class counsel.⁵⁸ The court emphasized that "the case was not settled pretrial" but

49. In the present case, a compelling justification for the 1/3 fee award requested by class counsel is that in Burnett they conducted a full trial on the merits against NAR and various brokerages and, on October 31, 2023, achieved a classwide award for a Missouri class of real estate sellers of $1.78 billion in damages (before trebling). I have no doubt that this impressive and historic trial verdict was an essential catalyst for the substantial settlements that followed.

50. Absence of Government Litigation. In some cases, private counsel are assisted by the existence of parallel government litigation. Such government litigation—which may involve both criminal actions and civil enforcement—can provide valuable resources and can help uncover underlying wrongdoing. Thus, some courts have noted the heavy involvement of the government in setting awards below amounts requested by class counsel. For example, in reducing class counsel's fee request in the AOL Time Warner Securities Litigation, the court noted that class counsel "benefited to a degree from work performed by others," including "[p]arallel government investigations."⁶⁰ Similarly, in explaining its fee award of only 10 percent in In re Quantum Health Resources, Inc., the court emphasized that "[t]he facts of [the] case weighed heavily in the Class's favor from the start, largely because the material allegations of the complaint were supported by the unequivocal results of public investigations conducted by [California state agencies]."⁶¹

51. Conversely, courts have also noted (as is true here) the absence of government involvement in approving substantial fee requests. For example, in In re CenturyLink Sales Practices & Securities Litigation, the court noted that the plaintiffs "faced a risk of losing" because of "the fact that there was no government investigation regarding [the defendant's] statements to its investors" and that, therefore, "[p]roving loss causation would have been a significant hurdle."⁶² Similarly, in In re Gulf Oil/Cities Services Tender Offer Litigation, the court emphasized that the case was "not [one] where plaintiffs' counsel can be cast as jackals to the government's lion, arriving on the scene after some enforcement or administrative agency has made the kill. [Class counsel] did all the work on their own."⁶³ As the court noted in Urethane, the fact that "[class]

52. Here, class counsel had no assistance of any kind from insurance regulators, state attorneys general, or any other state or federal officials.

53. No Public Admission of Liability. In some instances, class counsel benefit from the fact that the defendant has publicly admitted wrongdoing. Such admissions no doubt make it easier for class counsel to prosecute the claims and negotiate a settlement. For example, in Quantum Health, the court emphasized the “significant public admissions by Quantum” in concluding that class counsel did not face “any significant risk” and awarding attorneys’ fees of only 10 percent

Supp. 3d at 1112 (in awarding 33⅓ percent of $1.5 billion settlement, relying on the fact “that, unlike some other class actions, this case did not involve a government investigation or prosecution of the defendant, and thus plaintiffs’ counsel were forced to undertake all of the necessary investigation and discovery”).

of the common fund.⁶⁵ Similar public admissions of wrongdoing by Volkswagen in the Clean Diesel scandal also facilitated a prompt settlement.⁶⁶

54. Here, all of the defendants vigorously contested liability prior to entering into the class settlement; even today (and in the settlement agreements themselves), defendants admit no wrongdoing despite their agreement to pay hundreds of millions of dollars.

55. No Public Relations Reason to Settle. In some cases, widespread adverse publicity creates a public relations nightmare for a defendant, thus increasing the need for such a defendant to settle on terms favorable to plaintiffs. Examples include the Deepwater Horizon Litigation, where BP faced “a torrent of criticism” in the wake of the oil spill disaster;⁶⁷ the Volkswagen Clean Diesel Litigation, where Volkswagen’s admission of fraud shook consumer confidence and resulted in “something like a tsunami” of bad press;⁶⁸ and the NFL Concussion Litigation, where commentators noted that “regular updates from a courtroom had the potential to be a [public relations] nightmare for the NFL, especially because of the possibility of unflattering documents

Oct. 1, 2013) (noting that the litigation “was no easy task for [class counsel] because no Defendant ever admitted wrongdoing”). Additionally, even if the defendant has not publicly admitted wrongdoing, courts have focused on the relative ease of establishing liability in awarding fees below those requested by class counsel. For example, the Third Circuit, in rejecting the district court’s fee award in In re Cendant Corp. Litigation, emphasized that plaintiffs had “a simple case in terms of liability.” 264 F.3d 201, 221 (3d Cir. 2001).

coming to light.”⁶⁹ Here, there were no similar pressures that compelled the defendants to settle. In fact, plaintiffs were challenging conduct that was well accepted for generations by the real estate industry. The industry was facing no sudden public relations crisis when these cases were brought or settled.

56. Quality of Opposing Counsel. An important factor in evaluating a proposed fee award is the “quality and vigor of opposing counsel.”⁷⁰ This is understandable; class counsel must be especially adept when confronted by skilled defense counsel. For example, in awarding attorneys’ fees of 33⅓ percent in Dartell v. Tibet Pharmaceuticals, Inc., the court noted that “[t]he performance and quality of defense counsel . . . favors a finding that [class counsel] prosecuted this case with skill and efficiency.”⁷¹ Similarly, in awarding attorneys’ fees of 33⅓ percent of the $510 million fund in the Initial Public Offering Securities Litigation, the court noted that class counsel “were pitted against . . . prominent national defense firms,” and it emphasized what an “impressive feat” a favorable settlement was, achieved “against such formidable opponents.”⁷² Judge Lungstrum likewise awarded 1/3 of a $1.5 billion settlement, noting that defendants were “represented by experienced and well-funded top-shelf counsel, [who] (quite properly) raised every defense and contested every issue throughout,”⁷³ much like defendants did here. Numerous other courts have articulated similar reasoning.⁷⁴

57. Here, extraordinary skill on the part of class counsel was required because defendants have been represented by at least 30 of the top defense firms in the country, including (among other outstanding firms) Cooley; Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher; Holland & Knight; Jones Day; Morgan, Lewis & Bockius; O’Melveny & Meyers; Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison; Quinn Emanuel Urquhart Sullivan; and Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom.

58. In the face of defendants’ formidable attorneys, class counsel had to perform with great skill. They had to master the real estate industry, prepare and defend novel theories of antitrust liability, fend off facial and summary judgment challenges, avoid arbitration, convince the Court to proceed on a classwide basis, and present the complex issues in the case before a federal jury. As discussed below (¶ 74), this is an exceptionally talented group of class counsel. But with at least 30 of the nation’s top defense firms litigating on the other side, and defendants seemingly willing to spare no expense to win, many talented plaintiffs’ lawyers could have been outgunned here. Class counsel here made this litigation their central focus, in some instances to the near exclusion of all other cases. Indeed, a number of the attorneys at the six plaintiff firms worked on these cases full-time or close to full time for a number of years. See, e.g., Dirks Decl. at ¶ 4; Boulware Decl. at ¶ 7. The district court’s observations in Urethane are equally applicable here:

[Class] counsel achieved an incredible result for the class, in a case with an extreme amount of risk at all stages of the litigation, and they obtained that result because they won what is reported to be one of the largest verdicts of its kind in United States history. Counsel had to build this case on their own, without the help of a governmental investigation or prosecution, . . . and they toiled for many years, at great expense to themselves, with a very real risk that they would not recover anything.⁷⁵

iv. Preclusion of Other Employment Due to Acceptance of the Case

59. As noted (¶ 58), the six law firms representing plaintiffs were hampered in their ability to take on significant other work. Some of the lawyers on the plaintiffs’ side worked on little else for years.

v. Customary Fee

60. In individual contingency-fee contracts, the negotiated attorneys’ fees percentage is typically 1/3; indeed, that percentage can go much higher if, as here, the case goes to trial.⁷⁶ Here, the class representatives entered individual fee agreements of up to 35 percent contingent fees.

⁷⁵ Urethane, 2016 WL 4060156, at *6.

⁷⁶ See, e.g., Galloway v. Kansas City Landsmen, LLC, 833 F.3d 969, 973 (8th Cir. 2016) (noting that, in the district court’s experience, “33% is in the middle of the range that attorneys performing contingency fee work” typically charge); In re Cont’l Ill. Sec. Litig., 962 F.2d 566, 572 (7th Cir. 1992) (noting that the “usual range for contingent fees is between 33 and 50 percent”); Swinton v. Squaretrade, Inc., 454 F. Supp. 3d 848, 887 (S.D. Iowa 2020) (recognizing that a one-third contingency fee is “typical”); Hite v. Vermeer Manufacturing Co., 361 F. Supp. 2d 935, 953 (S.D. Iowa 2005) (noting that a one-third contingency is standard in Iowa for contingency cases).

Contingent fee agreements of 1/3 are common, and it is notable that various individual fee agreements here exceeded that percentage.⁷⁷

61. In assessing reasonable fees, numerous courts have cited the actual percentages in individual fee agreements. As the Seventh Circuit has explained:

When attorney's fees are deducted from class damages, the district court must try to assign fees that mimic a hypothetical ex ante bargain between the class and its attorneys. The court must base the award on relevant market rates and the ex ante risk of nonpayment. To determine the market for attorney's fees, the court should look to actual fee contracts that were privately negotiated for similar litigation⁷⁸

Similarly, the court in Allapattah noted that, “when deciding on appropriate fee levels in common-fund cases, courts must do their best to award counsel the market price for legal services, in light of the risk of nonpayment and the normal rate of compensation in the market at the time.”⁷⁹

62. Here, the fact that numerous individual plaintiffs agreed to a contingency fee of up to 35 percent speaks volumes regarding the difficulty of the litigation and the fairness of a fee request of one third of the common fund.

⁷⁷ See, e.g., Montague v. Dixie Nat. Life Ins. Co., No. 3:09-00687-JFA, 2011 WL 3626541, at *3 (D. S.C. Aug. 17, 2011) (“A 33% fee award from the common fund in this case is consistent with what is routinely privately negotiated in contingency fee litigation.”); *Frederick v. vi. Any Prearranged Fee

63. As noted (§ 60), individuals entered into private contingency fee contracts of up to 35 percent.

vii. Time Limitations Imposed by the Client or the Circumstances

64. In awarding fees, a number of courts have emphasized the litigation pressures faced by plaintiffs. For example, in Johnson, the court noted that “priority work that delays the lawyer’s other legal work is entitled to some premium.”⁸⁰ In League of Women Voters of Missouri v. Ashcroft, the Eighth Circuit noted that the fee request was reasonable under the Johnson factors in light of, among other things, “the time-sensitive nature of the claims.”⁸¹ And in Allapattah, the court cited the “frantic pace” of the litigation in “giv[ing] significant weight to this factor in setting the [fee] percentage.”⁸²

65. Here, serious time limitations were imposed in this litigation. Discovery was extensive and challenging, and as noted (§ 58), several of the lawyers involved in this litigation worked on little else for years. Moreover, class counsel faced the pressure of a firm trial date in Burnett—with no realistic prospect of a pretrial settlement in sight.

viii. Amount Involved and Results Obtained

66. As noted above (§ 38), “the degree of success obtained is the most critical factor in determining the reasonableness of a fee award.”⁸³ For example, in the Rite Aid Corporation Securities Litigation, the court emphasized that the $126.6 million settlement was the largest recovery on record against auditors in a securities class action.⁸⁴ Here, in addition to the $208.5 million settlement fund approved by this Court in the Anywhere, et al. settlements, class counsel successfully negotiated a non-reversionary cash settlement of $110.6 million in the Compass, et al. settlements, $418 million in the NAR settlement, and $250 million in the HomeServices settlement. These “groundbreaking” settlements may be some of the largest settlements or verdicts ever obtained against the real estate industry.⁸⁵ And they are clearly large by any class action standard.⁸⁶ Moreover, unlike in most class actions, in which settlements occur before trial, here class counsel achieved a landmark jury verdict that fundamentally altered the path of the litigation.

⁸³ Vines v. Welspun Pipes Inc., 9 F.4th 849, 856 (8th Cir. 2021) (cleaned up).

⁸⁶ See, e.g., In re Apple Inc. Device Performance Litig., No. 5:18-MD-02827-EJD, 2023 WL 2090981 at *13 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 17, 2023) (“The $310 million Settlement floor, with a maximum Settlement amount of $500 million, is a substantial result.”); In re Glumetza Antitrust Litig., No. C 19-05822 WHA, 2022 WL 327707, at *6 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 3, 2022) (“The combined settlement amount of $453,850,000 constitutes the third-largest absolute dollar recovery for a direct-purchaser class in a generic delay pharmaceutical antitrust action.”); Ferron v. Kraft Heinz

67. Critically, all of the funds (after attorneys’ fees, expenses, and any approved service awards) will go to the class. No funds are subject to reversion to the defendants. This is the polar opposite of a case in which class members end up with little value, such as a settlement involving worthless coupons,⁸⁷ or one where much or most of the fund is unclaimed and reverts to the defendant.⁸⁸

68. Moreover, as discussed in detail below (¶¶ 96–98), the results also include historic injunctive relief that will result in a sea change in the real estate industry. And class counsel secured the cooperation of the settling defendants in the prosecution of the remaining defendants.

69. In my opinion, the fact that the nationwide settlements here are lower than the $1.78 billion trial verdict in the Missouri class action does not undermine the conclusion that class counsel were highly effective in achieving these settlements. Because of the trial defendants’ limitations on their ability to pay, the settlements obtained a significant recovery for the class without tipping the defendants into bankruptcy. As noted (¶ 46), there were numerous risks in upholding that trial verdict on appeal. NAR and the brokerages mounted substantial challenges to the trial verdict; had that verdict been upheld, appeal would have been a certainty. More generally, Foods Company, No. 20-CV-62136-RAR, 2021 WL 2940240, at *10 (S.D. Fla. July 13, 2021) (noting that in a case with a total settlement valued at $125 million “the benefits provided to the Class by the Settlement are remarkable”); Cook v. Rockwell Int’l Corp., No. 90-CV-00181-JLK, 2017 WL 5076498, at *2 (D. Colo. Apr. 28, 2017) (noting that the $375 million settlement was an “extraordinary result”).

as noted (§§ 41–47), defendants had several plausible legal challenges to the complaint, plaintiffs’ experts, and class certification, just to name a few of the areas plaintiffs would have had to litigate on appeal.

70. Moreover, as discussed below (§ 96), these settlements do far more than creating a pot of money. They result in transformative injunctive relief that was not achieved even after the jury trial in this Court. As NAR pointed out after the October 2023 jury verdict (see § 17), that verdict did not adjudicate whether the industry had to change its practices. According to press coverage, the relief is worth billions of dollars per year. See § 26. And in addition to the injunctive relief, class counsel secured the cooperation of the settling defendants in prosecuting the remaining defendants.

71. Finally, a settlement must be realistic based on the defendants’ solvency. A settlement that leads to a defendant’s bankruptcy is not advantageous to the class. Here, as in the prior and other pending settlements, class counsel was attentive to seeking the maximum settlements without forcing the defendants into bankruptcy. Indeed, they consulted with financial experts to determine what each settling defendant could reasonably pay in settlement without becoming insolvent. Dirks Decl. at §§ 27-28. This Court recognized this point in the Anywhere, et. al. settlements. It noted that the settlements were “supported by the financial condition of the Settling Defendants,” and that “[b]efore settling, Plaintiffs used a forensic accountant to confirm each defendant’s ability to pay while still maintaining a viable business.” Burnett, 2024 WL 2842222, at *5. The Court concluded that “[t]he Settlements each capture a significant portion of the Settling Defendants’ available assets while still allowing them to continue operations,” whereas “the joint and several liability that would have resulted from a judgment would have been disastrous for any of the defendants.” Id. The Court cited several cases supporting the notion that a settlement can be fair and reasonable without having ruinous consequences for the defendant. *Id.*⁸⁹

72. A similar issue arose in the VW Clean Diesel MDL litigation, in which I served as an expert on the fairness of the class settlement. Various objectors complained that, although the settlement awarded in excess of the Bluebook value of the vehicles, it was deficient because it did not award the full original purchase price of the cars, some of which were many years old with high mileage. In making that argument, the objectors emphasized the egregiousness of Volkswagen’s conduct. In urging the Court to reject those objections, I explained that such an award, while desirable in theory given Volkswagen’s admitted misconduct, could well bankrupt Volkswagen. As such, the objectors’ proposal was not ultimately in the interest of the class. Judge Breyer agreed, reasoning:

“... Professor Klonoff opines that requiring Volkswagen ‘to pay the full purchase [price], regardless of the age of the vehicle, would increase the cost of the settlement multifold. The possibility of bankruptcy under such a scenario cannot be ignored.’ (quoting Klonoff Declaration). Bankruptcy would present ‘a huge impediment to prompt, efficient, and fair payments to injured claimants.’ (quoting Klonoff Declaration). Weighing this possibility against the immediate and guaranteed benefits provided by the Settlement, settlement is clearly favored.”⁹⁰

⁸⁹ Specifically, the Court cited two Eighth Circuit cases: Grunin v. Int’l House of Pancakes, 513 F.2d 114, 125 (8th Cir. 1975), and Petrovic v. Amoco Oil Co., 200 F.3d 1140, 1153 (8th Cir. 1999), as well as a decision from the Southern District of New York, Meredith v. SESAC, LLC, 87 F. Supp.3d 650, 665 (S.D.N.Y. 2015). See Burnett, 2024 WL 2842222, at *5.

Litig.*, 741 F. App’x 367 (9th Cir. 2018).

73. Other courts have likewise looked at the possibility of bankruptcy in assessing whether the amount of a particular settlement is fair, reasonable, and adequate. For example, In In re Genworth Fin. Sec. Litig., the district court found a proposed class settlement to be fair where—as is the case here—the amount was reached through consultation with financial experts who determined what the Defendant could reasonably pay without compromising its solvency.⁹¹ As the court explained, a larger jury verdict would “decrease the plaintiffs’ likelihood of recovery through bankruptcy proceedings.”⁹² Similarly, in In re EVCI Career Colleges Holding Corp. Sec. Litig., the district court approved a cash settlement constituting only 35 percent of the total estimate of damages because “there was significant risk that, even if [Plaintiffs] succeeded at trial, the resulting damage award could be wiped out by a bankruptcy filing.”⁹³

ix. Experience, Reputation, and Ability of Attorneys

74. Class counsel are highly skilled and experienced class action and antitrust attorneys, from some of the most prestigious plaintiff firms in the country. See Burnett Docs. 1392-1–1392-6 (declarations of all six firms). The individual lawyers from these firms included some of the country’s most accomplished class action and antitrust plaintiff lawyers. Team members have received recognition as the “The Best Lawyers in America,” “Super Lawyers,” and “Rising Stars.” Id. Many have held prominent leadership roles in other major class actions and MDL cases.⁹⁴

x. Undesirability of the Case

75. Any lawyer considering involvement on the plaintiffs’ side in this case had to understand that the litigation involved a huge commitment of time and resources, with an outcome that was anything but certain. Class counsel appear to be the first and only lawyers willing to represent the settlement class until after the successful trial verdict in Burnett. Only after their successes did other attorneys start to bring similar cases.

xi. Nature and Length of Professional Relationship with the Client

76. For the vast majority of class members, there was no prior relationship. Courts have generally given little weight to this Johnson factor, noting that “[t]he meaning of this factor . . . and its effect on the calculation of a reasonable fee has always been unclear.”⁹⁵ Here, to the extent that this factor is relevant at all, it is neutral.

xii. Awards in Similar Cases

77. Fee awards in other cases involving significant challenges confirm the reasonableness of the fees sought here. As I explain in detail below, the percentage requested by class counsel here (1/3) is in line with percentages awarded in numerous other class actions. It also aligns with the fees awarded in other antitrust settlements. And, unlike in most of those cases, the settlements here will yield injunctive relief worth billions of dollars to the class and future real estate sellers; in essence, class counsel secured the settling defendants' agreement to transform their industry practices going forward.

⁹⁴ See, e.g., Burnett Docs. 1392-4 at ¶ 2; 1392-5 at ¶ 2.

⁹⁵ Bruner v. Spring/United Mgmt. Co., No. 07-cv-02164-KHV, 2009 WL 2058762, at *9 (D. Kan. July 14, 2009).

78. As the above discussion reflects, analysis of the Johnson factors demonstrates the reasonableness of the fees sought here. And that is based just on the monetary fund. As discussed below (¶¶ 96–98), the actual percentage sought by counsel is much lower than 1/3 because the settlements include substantial injunctive relief worth billions of dollars.

C. The Percentage Requested Is Reasonable Notwithstanding the Fact that These are So-Called Mega-Fund Cases

79. In this section, I explain why, in my opinion, an award of 1/3 is reasonable notwithstanding the fact that these settlements could be characterized as mega-fund settlements, i.e., those above $100 million.⁹⁶

80. As an initial matter, I would note that the Eighth Circuit made clear just last month that “we decline to hold that a court must award a reduced percentage in megafund cases.”⁹⁷ It noted that “a per se rule requiring a percentage reduction in every megafund case would introduce arbitrary and formulaic rules into an inquiry that needs to be anything but.”⁹⁸ As a result, any argument that the fee award must be reduced because these are mega-fund settlements is incorrect. Out of an abundance of caution, however, I address herein various empirical studies on mega-fund settlements and actual awards in other mega-fund cases. As a result of that analysis, I conclude that a 1/3 fee award in the present mega-fund context is entirely reasonable.

81. I am fully aware that empirical studies reveal that a fee of 1/3 is above the average and median fee awards in class actions, although it is close to the percentage range in the Eighth Circuit.⁹⁹ I further recognize that, according to empirical studies, fee awards (as a percentage) tend to decline as the amount of the settlement increases, with the lowest percentage awards appearing in so-called mega-fund settlements.¹⁰⁰ But these empirical studies, which focus on medians and averages, cannot substitute for a careful analysis of the facts and circumstances of each settlement.

82. In Syngenta, for example, the district court explained that the declining percentage approach “fails to appreciate the immense risks undertaken by attorneys in prosecuting complex cases in which there is a great risk of no recovery.”¹⁰¹ Similarly, in Urethane, the district court

EMPIRICAL LEGAL STUD. 248, 259, 267 (2010) (finding, in 1993–2008 study, average fees of 24 percent and median fees of 25 percent with average of 25 percent and median of 30 percent in the Eighth Circuit).

rejected objectors’ reliance on statistical studies in arguing that fee awards should necessarily decrease with the size of the fund. To the contrary, in awarding attorneys’ fees of 33⅓ percent in Urethane, the court stated:

This Court appreciates that some courts have awarded lower percentages to avoid granting an excessive windfall to counsel under the unique circumstances of those cases. On the other hand, the Court agrees with those courts who have noted that such a diminishing scale can fail to provide the proper incentive for counsel [I]n the present case, . . . class counsel achieved extraordinary success in a very long litigation. Thus, use of a declining-scale approach is not appropriate here, and the Court will award fees based on the unique circumstances of the case.¹⁰²

83. Likewise, the Third Circuit has noted that the “position [that fees should decrease with the size of the fund] has been criticized by respected courts and commentators, who contend that such a fee scale often gives counsel an incentive to settle cases too early and too cheaply.”¹⁰³ In the Rite Aid Securities Litigation, the Third Circuit made clear that “the declining percentage concept does not trump the fact-intensive [attorneys’ fees] analysis.”¹⁰⁴ And in Allapattah, the court emphasized that a declining percentage reduction is “antithetical to the percentage [method’s] purpose of . . . align[ing] the interests of Class Counsel and the Class by rewarding counsel in proportion to the result obtained.”¹⁰⁵

84. Other courts have made the same points.¹⁰⁶ Moreover, numerous scholars agree that fee percentages should not necessarily be lower in mega-fund cases.¹⁰⁷ In my opinion, these courts and scholars have correctly articulated the flaws in a declining percentage approach.

85. To be sure, an empirical study conducted in 2010 by Professor Brian Fitzpatrick of Vanderbilt University School of Law showed an inverse relationship between fee percentages and the amounts of settlements.¹⁰⁸ Of the mega-fund settlements surveyed by Professor Fitzpatrick where the fund was between $500 million and $1 billion—like the collective settlements here—both the average and median fee awards were 12.9 percent.¹⁰⁹ For several reasons, I do not believe that this study undercuts the 1/3 fee request here.

86. First, as discussed below (¶¶ 96–98), the true percentage sought here, taking into account the extraordinary injunctive relief secured, is well below 1/3—indeed, under the most conservative assumptions it is below three percent.

87. Second, as Judge Lungstrum noted in Syngenta, a rigid approach to mega-fund settlements would lead to incentives that conflict with the percentage approach:

[i]t is true that economies of scale may mean that a large percentage would result in an unacceptable windfall in some cases . . . [but] the court does not agree that megafund cases should necessarily be subject to a diminishing scale by which the award percentage falls as the settlement amount grows. As the Court has noted previously, use of such a scale fails to provide the proper incentive for counsel and is fundamentally at odds with the percentage-of-the-fund approach¹¹⁰

88. Third, by definition, the median value is the value in the middle of a data set; of the values used to identify the median, half are necessarily equal to or greater than the median. And various values used to calculate an average may be equal to or greater than the average.¹¹¹ As I discuss above (¶¶ 41–59), the extraordinary level of work and result achieved here in the face of enormous risk warrants a substantial fee percentage—well above the mean and median percentages in the Fitzpatrick study—even though lower percentages might be more appropriate in different factual settings. Relying on averages and medians without focusing on the crucial facts of this litigation and settlement would be a flawed approach.

89. Fourth, there are numerous mega-fund cases with percentage-based fee awards equal to or greater than the 1/3 of the fund sought here. As would be expected, those awards are based on a careful analysis of the specific facts and challenges of a given case. For example, in In re Vitamins Antitrust Litigation,¹¹² Standard Iron Works v. ArcelorMittal,¹¹³ and In re Flonase

¹¹¹ Indeed, from 1996 to 2011, the median percentage of attorneys’ fees in mega-fund cases valued between $500 and $1,000 million was 17.7%; the median value from 2012–2021 was again 17.7%, see Janeen McIntosh & Svetlana Starykh, Recent Trends in Securities Class Action Litigation: 2021 Full-year Review, 19 NERA 27 (2021), https://www.nera.com/content/dam/nera/publications/2022/PUB_2021_Full-Year_Trends_012022.pdf.

Antitrust Litigation,¹¹⁴ the courts awarded, respectively, 34.06 percent, 33 percent, and 33⅓ percent as attorneys' fees because of the complex issues involved, the quality of class counsel's work, and the results obtained.

90. The mega-fund cases cited in paragraph 89 are just three examples. In the table below, I have collected 51 mega-fund cases that involved fee awards of 30 percent or greater (30 of which awarded 33 percent or more). Importantly, 28 of the cases post-date the publication of Professor Fitzpatrick's 2010 study.

91. These cases show that, even in mega-fund cases, there is nothing unprecedented about awards at the 1/3 level requested here. In my view, the settlements here—even as mega-fund settlements—justify an award of 1/3 of the fund, given the difficult factual, legal, and expert issues, contested class certification issues, formidable opposing counsel, the significant risk of no recovery, and the fact that class counsel successfully litigated a case to a jury verdict. Indeed, only 12 of the 51 cases listed in Table 1 involved an actual trial.

92. Moreover, given that mega-fund class actions are less common than those with smaller recoveries, average and median fee percentages for those cases are subject to greater variation.¹¹⁸ Notably, a number of mega-fund settlements have been securities class actions, where average and median fee awards tend to be lower than the overall averages and medians.¹¹⁹ Presumably, one reason for lower fees in securities cases is that the crucial issue of class certification—a major source of dispute here (see ¶ 45)—is generally less challenging in securities cases.¹²⁰ And in many securities settlements, private plaintiffs are helped significantly by parallel government enforcement actions.¹²¹ Moreover, in some mega-fund securities fraud settlements, courts have pointed to the lack of complex legal and factual challenges and the relative ease of achieving settlement in awarding lesser attorneys' fees.¹²² In contrast, class counsel did not have the benefit of any of these risk-reducing factors here. From my perspective, the risks here could not have been more daunting. Indeed, it is my understanding that there were few copycat lawsuits (a common phenomenon in class actions) until after the historic jury verdict.

93. In my view, the critical takeaway from the mega-fund case law is that attorneys' fee awards should bear a relationship to the degree of risk involved.¹²³ Indeed, courts often expressly note the degree of risk assumed by class counsel in approving larger fee awards.¹²⁴ As one court noted in awarding attorneys' fees of 33 percent, "[c]ourts recognize that the risk of receiving no recovery is a major factor in awarding attorneys' fees...[T]he riskier the case, the greater the justification for a substantial fee award."¹²⁵ Another court explained that "[a]ttorneys' risk is perhaps the foremost factor in determining an appropriate fee award.”¹²⁶ Indeed, a number of the Johnson factors focus specifically on the risks imposed by the litigation, including the difficulty of the issues and the undesirability of the case. See ¶ 37 (quoting Johnson factors)

94. An emphasis on risk is especially relevant in mega-fund cases, where class counsel often invest many thousands of attorney hours and millions of dollars in expenses. For example, in In re Charter Communications, the court reasoned that the percentage-based fee award was “particularly reasonable given the risks undertaken . . . and the excellent results achieved [by class counsel].”¹²⁷ Similarly, in Roberts v. Texaco, the court observed that it is “the skill, ingenuity, effort and risk of counsel that, in the final analysis, produces the result.”¹²⁸ As noted, this case exemplifies the significant risks undertaken by class counsel on behalf of the class to obtain a historic settlement.

95. Finally, comparing this case to most mega-fund settlements is an apples and oranges analysis. Unlike most of the cases in Table 1, the actual percentage here is substantially lower than 1/3 because, in addition to creating a pot of money, the instant case also achieves injunctive relief worth billions of dollars. See ¶ 96. As discussed below, the true percentage sought is not 1/3; taking into account an extremely conservative value of the injunctive relief, the amount sought as fees is only 2.99 percent of the total benefit, a modest amount by any measure for such a challenging and hard-fought case.

D. With Injunctive Relief Considered, the True Percentage Sought by Class Counsel is Significantly Less than 1/3 of the Benefits

96. This case involves not only the creation of a common fund but also the implementation of pathbreaking injunctive relief. Here, press coverage states that the injunctive value of these settlements is worth billions of dollars per year going forward.¹²⁹ For purposes of this Declaration, I assume an exceedingly low value of the injunctive relief as a total of $10 billion. Adding that value to the $987.1 million of settlement funds results in a true percentage of 2.99, as opposed to 1/3.

97. Numerous courts have made clear that in calculating the true percentage requested, it is proper to take into account the value of injunctive relief.¹³⁰ That approach makes perfect sense:

¹²⁹ See, e.g., Debra Kamin, 4 Ways a Settlement Could Change the Housing Industry, THE NEW YORK TIMES (Mar. 15, 2024), <https://www.nytimes.com/2024/03/15/realestate/nar-realtors-settlement-takeaways.html> (quoting estimate by retired executive director of the Consumer Federation of America); Scott Horsley, If you recently sold your home, you might get part of your realtor fee back, NPR (Mar. 22, 2024), <https://www.npr.org/2024/03/22/1239486107/realtor-fee-commission-homes-for-sale> (“Economists at the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond estimate the changes could save homebuyers $30 billion a year, with most of those savings coming out of the pockets of real estate agents.”).

Nov. 4, 2020) (including estimated value of injunctive relief in total settlement fund, making requested fee 23% rather than one-third); Corker v. Costco Wholesale Corp., No. 2:19-CV-00290-RSL, 2021 WL 2790518, at *1 (W.D. Wash. June 25, 2021) (adding value of injunctive relief to common fund, decreasing true percentage from approximately 43% to 11%); McCoy v. Health Net, Inc., 569 F. Supp. 2d 448, 478 (D.N.J. 2008) (adding value of injunctive relief to common fund, decreasing true percentage requested from 32% to 28%); Tennille v. W. Union Co.,

To ignore all of the value secured by class counsel would be to ignore the overall success of the litigation. Here, for example, where the injunctive relief, as valued by plaintiffs' experts, is worth billions of dollars, it would make no sense to turn a blind eye to such relief when assessing the reasonableness of attorneys' fees.

98. Indeed, even in situations in which the injunctive aspect of a settlement cannot be calculated with precision, numerous courts have looked to the injunctive relief as evidence supporting the percentage-of-the-fund requested. As Chief Judge Beth Phillips in this District has recognized, “[t]he fact that counsel obtained injunctive relief in addition to monetary relief for their clients is . . . a relevant circumstance to consider in determining what percentage of the fund is reasonable as fees.”¹³¹ verify the reasonableness of the fees sought based on sheer percentages.¹³² The Eighth Circuit recently stated that while it has not required a lodestar, it has “not held that a crosscheck is always unwarranted” and in fact it may “sometimes [be] warranted to double-check the result of the ‘percentage of the fund’ method.”¹³³ As an example, the Eighth Circuit cites the situation “when a megafund case settles quickly [thereby raising] the potential for a windfall.”¹³⁴ In this case, the settlement occurred only after years of litigation, including a contested trial. Nor can I think of any other factors here that would require a lodestar cross-check. the proposition that “[a] lodestar crosscheck is ‘not required’”) (citations omitted). I see no basis for a different approach with respect to the pending settlements.

100. Indeed, in my opinion, conducting a lodestar cross-check could be counterproductive. Such a procedure can lead to the very harmful consequences that the percentage method is designed to avoid. As one court has noted, “[t]he lodestar analysis, even when used as a cross check to determine a reasonable percentage award, has the effect of rewarding attorneys for the same undesirable activities that the percentage method was designed to discourage, namely ‘incentiviz[ing] [class counsel] to multiply filings and drag along proceedings to increase their lodestar.’”¹³⁶

101. It is not surprising, therefore, that a number of courts in the Eighth Circuit have used the percentage method without reference to a lodestar cross-check.¹³⁷ Many other jurisdictions follow a similar approach.¹³⁸ Indeed, in awarding attorneys’ fees of 30 percent in the $410 million

F. In Any Event, a Lodestar Analysis Supports the Fees Requested

102. In any case, out of an abundance of caution, I have performed a lodestar cross-check. As discussed below, such an analysis, in my opinion, only confirms the reasonableness of the 1/3 fee award sought by class counsel.

103. The lodestar method involves “multipl[y]ing the number of hours worked by the prevailing hourly rate.”¹⁴¹ The court then considers the “less objective” factors of “the contingent nature of success” and the “quality of the attorneys’ work.”¹⁴² I focus on these issues below.

1. Calculation of Hours Devoted to Prosecuting Multiple Defendants

104. As explained above, the settlements all stemmed directly from work performed throughout the litigation in developing evidence and making successful legal arguments. As a result, in my opinion, if a lodestar cross-check is conducted, it is appropriate to calculate the lodestar and lodestar multiplier in a holistic fashion based on the pending settlements and also on the prior Anywhere, et al. settlements. As in many antitrust (and other complex) cases, hours accumulated in a difficult multi-defendant case cannot be isolated on a defendant-by-defendant basis. Rather, tasks such as expert development, opposing motions to dismiss, developing arguments for class certification, and even conducting trials in individual cases are tasks that advance the litigation as a whole, against all defendants.

105. Trying to parse the hours that should be allocated to a particular defendant would be entirely guesswork and would involve complicated time-intensive review of all time sheets—a process that would completely undermine the purpose of having a simple cross-check. A cross-check is not supposed to be a full lodestar analysis, but rather a simplified approach to provide information that might support or undermine an award based solely on a percentage basis. Courts have thus noted that a cross-check “need entail neither mathematical precision nor bean-counting”¹⁴³ Numerous cases, including several within the Eighth Circuit, are in accord.¹⁴⁴

106. Thus, trying to go through every time entry in an attempt to isolate time to allocate specifically to the Compass, et al. settlements currently under consideration would be a futile and enormously time-consuming effort to achieve “mathematical precision.” Nor would it be accurate or fair to determine the hours devoted to the Compass, et al. settlements by simply relying on hours accumulated by class counsel subsequent to this Court’s approval of the Anywhere, et al. settlements. Work leading to the Compass, et al. settlements has been ongoing since the commencement of this litigation, and in my opinion, it would make no sense to look only at post-Anywhere, et al. settlement hours in determining the lodestar applicable to the Compass, et al. settlements (or the other pending settlements).

107. This is not the first case to deal with litigation in which multiple defendants have settled over time based on work done by class counsel that has benefited all of the cases. This scenario is especially common in antitrust cases. Every hour accrued identifying and preparing experts, defending the cases against legal challenge, marshaling support for class certification, and myriad other tasks necessarily benefit all of the cases, not just the one that happens to be before the Court at a particular moment on the reasonableness of attorneys' fees.

108. As one leading case on this issue has explained, “courts typically base fee awards in subsequent settlements on all work performed in the case,” based on the reality—applicable here—that “the total work performed by counsel from inception of the case makes each settlement possible.”¹⁴⁵ Under this approach, when calculating fees, “courts typically calculate the lodestar multiplier by dividing (1) all past and requested fee awards by (2) all of counsel’s time from inception of the case.”¹⁴⁶ Numerous other authorities are in accord.¹⁴⁷ Not surprisingly, as those authorities (cited in n. 147) reveal, many of the cases articulating this approach are antitrust cases, which frequently involve multiple defendants who settle at different points in the litigation.

109. This holistic approach to calculating fees in the context of successive settlements makes perfect sense as a policy matter. As one court has cogently stated: “[I]f an award of fees for a successive settlement were limited and calculated only on the basis of time and expenses incurred since the preceding settlement, counsel would have little or no incentive to vigorously or efficiently pursue litigation or settlement of claims with non-settling defendants . . . even though the remaining defendants might be equally as culpable or have greater culpability.”¹⁴⁸ Moreover, a holistic approach provides a methodology that can be used for all future settlements, thus avoiding the need for the Court and the parties to determine how to calculate the lodestar for each subsequent settlement.

2. The Hours Spent by Class Counsel

110. This Court is in the best position to evaluate whether the hours spent by class counsel are reasonable. Class counsel have not asked me to conduct such an inquiry. For purposes of my cross-check, I accept the hours supplied to me by class counsel and assume they are reasonable.

3. The Billing Rates Proposed by Class Counsel

111. I have not been asked by class counsel to conduct a timekeeper-by-timekeeper evaluation of the reasonableness of the billing rates. For purposes of my cross check, I accept the billing rates proposed by class counsel for all timekeepers. I would, however, note three points.

112. First, class counsel demonstrate that the rates they propose are consistent with rates approved by these and similar timekeepers in other matters.¹⁴⁹ The best evidence of the reasonableness of fees is other courts' approval of comparable fees for the same law firms and attorneys.

113. Second, because these are nationwide class actions and involve class counsel and defense firms from around the country, the focus should not be solely on Missouri (or Illinois) rates; rather, where (as here) "local community rates would not be sufficient to attract experienced counsel in a specialized legal field, the appropriate rate may be determined by reference to a national market or a market for a particular legal specialization."¹⁵⁰ Indeed, class attorneys in other high profile class actions have had comparable or higher rates approved.¹⁵¹

¹⁵¹ For example, in Volkswagen Clean Diesel, class counsel's hourly rates were as high as $1,600 for partners and $790 for associates. *In re Volkswagen "Clean Diesel" Marketing, Sales Practices & Prods Liab. 114. Third, the billing rates proposed are quite low in comparison with rates charged by the very law firms that litigated these cases. It is instructive, in gauging billing rates for class counsel, to look at rates for the firms actually representing the defendants in the litigation.¹⁵² For example, partners at the Quinn Emanuel firm bill as high as $2,030 per hour;¹⁵³ associates bill as high as $1,515 per hour;¹⁵⁴ and paralegals bill as high as $550 per hour.¹⁵⁵

G. The Multiplier Is Well Justified Based on the Facts

115. Based on the more than 105,000 hours expended thus far, and taking into account the prior Anywhere, et al. settlements and all pending settlements, the multiplier would be 3.62. This calculation is based on the total approved and pending settlements ($987.1 million), a request of one-third of that amount for fees ($329.03 million), and a total lodestar of over $90 million. In my opinion, a multiplier of 3.62 is very reasonable, especially given the risks, challenges, and protracted nature of these cases.

116. As a threshold matter, I believe that class counsel are clearly entitled to more than just their hours multiplied by their hourly rates. When using the lodestar method to calculate fees, courts often apply a multiplier “to compensate for the risk of [the] litigation.”¹⁵⁶ When using the lodestar as a cross-check on a percentage-based fee, the multiplier is simply designed to assess whether there are reasons to question the reasonableness of the resulting fee. In analyzing the multiplier, the ultimate standard is “reasonableness,” and courts often look to those Johnson factors that are not already subsumed within the lodestar calculation (excluding, for example, “the time and labor involved,” because class counsel’s hours and rates are already accounted for by the lodestar).¹⁵⁷

¹⁵⁶ Been v. O.K. Indus., Inc., No. CIV-02-285-RAW, 2011 WL 4478766, at *10 (E.D. Okla. Aug. 16, 2011).

¹⁵⁷ See, e.g., Keil, 862 F.3d at 697 (“To determine the reasonableness of a fee award . . . , district courts may consider relevant factors from the twelve factors listed in Johnson”); In re Miniscribe Corp., 309 F.3d 1234, 1243 (10th Cir. 2002) (applying “Johnson criteria for determining the multiplier . . . to be applied to the lodestar amount”); Swinton v. Squaretrade, Inc., 454 F. Supp. 3d 848, 884 (S.D. Iowa 2020) (“the lodestar amount can be adjusted, up or down, to reflect the individualized characteristics of a given action . . . [and courts] must consider relevant factors from the twelve [Johnson] factors”) (cleaned up); Koehler v. Freightquote.com, Inc., No. 12-2505-DDC-GLR, 2016 WL 3743098, at *6–9 (D. Kan. July 13, 2016) (approving class

117. In this case, there is no question that class counsel reasonably expected to be awarded more than just their hours multiplied by their hourly rates (assuming that the Court were to apply the lodestar method as the primary method or as a cross-check). As explained in ¶¶ 40–59, class counsel took on litigation that entailed enormous risk and challenges. It would be illogical and unfair to rely solely on standard billing rates, without enhancement, in a situation where there was a serious likelihood that class counsel would recover nothing. Class counsel’s designated hourly rates do not reflect that risk.

118. A multiplier of 3.62 is not high here given that this is anything but a routine or average case. This litigation entailed enormous risk, as detailed above (see ¶¶ 40–59), and class counsel had to litigate against defendants that were willing to hire the most expensive law firms in the country. A lodestar multiplier “need not fall within any pre-defined range, so long as the court’s analysis justifies the award, such as when the multiplier is in line with multipliers used in other cases.”¹⁵⁸

119. Notably, the Eighth Circuit has noted that a multiplier of 5.3 “does not exceed the bounds of reasonableness.”¹⁵⁹ Likewise, the Ninth Circuit upheld a multiplier of 6.85 in Steiner v. American Broadcasting Co., Inc., emphasizing that it was “well within the range of multipliers that courts have allowed.”¹⁶⁰ Another court has noted that “[c]ourts regularly award lodestar counsel’s requested multiplier where “the other Johnson factors demonstrate[d] the reasonableness of the fee”).

multipliers of up to eight times the lodestar, and in some cases, even higher multipliers.”¹⁶¹ In In re Charter Communications Securities Litigation the court noted, in awarding a multiplier of 5.61, that the multiplier was “fully justified here given the effort required, the hurdles faced and overcome, and the results achieved.”¹⁶² In approving a multiplier of 6 in Cardinal Health, the district court noted that “the risk of non-recovery [was] the most important factor in the fee determination.”¹⁶³ Similarly, in Rite Aid, the court noted, in approving a 6.96 multiplier, that (like the historic life insurance settlement here) the case involved the largest recovery against an auditor in a Rule 10b-5 securities action.¹⁶⁴ These points apply fully here.

H. The Multiplier Is Well Justified in Comparison with Other Mega-Fund Cases

121. Here, a multiplier of 3.62 for class counsel for all of the approved and pending settlements is well justified. Class counsel took on a challenging and risky case with extremely complex legal and factual issues; prosecuted it skillfully over the course of several years in multiple jurisdictions without assistance from any government litigation; obtained class certification despite defendants' vigorous opposition; successfully conducted a classwide trial; and obtained historic monetary and injunctive settlements for the class.

I. The Requested 1/3 Fee Award is Necessarily Reasonable if the Compass et al. Settlements are Viewed in Isolation

122. Finally, I have offered my opinion in a holistic fashion, in which I support a 1/3 award when all of the approved and pending settlements are considered. It thus follows a fortiori that a 1/3 fee award is warranted if the Court considers just the Compass, et al. settlements in isolation (and does not the NAR and HomeServices settlements). All of my analysis above is fully applicable: the requested award is justified by the Johnson factors and is supported by a lodestar cross-check using a holistic approach—but considering only the Compass, et al. settlements and the Anywhere, et al. settlements. Under that scenario, the settlements would be $110.6 million in Compass, et al. and $208.5 million in Anywhere, et al. A 1/3 award of that combined amount would be $106.37 million. Using the current lodestar of $90,853,364, the multiplier would be a modest 1.17.

VII. CONCLUSION

123. In my opinion, the attorneys' fees sought by class counsel are reasonable and should be approved. My conclusion applies not only for the fees sought in the Compass, et al. settlements but also in the other settlements pending as of the date of this Declaration (the NAR and HomeServices settlements).
